Dear Douglas

Happy to receive your beautiful letter and have enjoyed reading every bit of it. It was the most beautiful, most encouraging news I've ever read in the last few months. I know that only through hard work and sacrifice that you achieve such good results and may God help you to continue this wonderful work you are doing and bring closer the struggle of the farmworkers as the days go by to an end.

Douglas, I was inspired by your letter that I had to give it to Richard, the editor, to put it in this coming issue of the Malcriado. I know that the readers will be glad to know what you and other boycotters are doing there.

I have extended your regards to everyone in the camp and Willie and George and others and they all wish you to come home by Christmas.

This coming Friday, we are all going to Salinas to attend a rally at the court hearing on the arrest of Cesar just like what happenned in Bakersfield during his fast. There will be many people there from lots of places and we hope that the case will be dismissed "So be it."

Father Day is not editting the Malcriado any more, for he has gone back to school. He wants to become a teacher in the seminary like what father Saladini is doing now. So we all wish you to come home soon for the Malcriado needs you. Ben Maddox and Pete Velasco are runing the Co-op Store selling everything but the paper.

Lastly, I extend my regards to Chuy and all the "brothers" there but wish you to keep the most for yourself.

¡Viva La Causa!

Love

E. Sahagun
